

DAWES TO GET A LESSON, SENATE'S GRIM COMMENT

No Chance to Revise the Rules, Is Consensus.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—Immediately after Vice President Dawes' brief address to the senate, over which he is to preside for the next four years, he became a storm center of discussion.

The vice presidency is generally regarded as a thirteenth part, and the senator Tom Platt of New York is understood to have said, when Roosevelt assumed the office, that "Theodore had taken the veil," but Dawes today ripped that veil to tatters, and comment on his achievement is varied and forceful.

Old Timers Wax Stubbish.
Opinion in senatorial circles varies all the way from that comment of Senator Edwards (Dem., N. J.) that the vice presidential address was "Hell and Maria—and not much Maria," and the grimly expressed opinion of Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah) that it was "very unfortunate, because if there had before existed a chance for revision of the senate rules, it was now dead," to the view of Senator Oddie (Rep., Nev.) that it was "a virile speech and shows that he is full of fight—something the senate needs."

Senator Ferris (Dem., Mich.) was more charitable, not to say compassionate. "I think," he said, "that the vice president has the lesson of his life coming to him. He has my profoundest sympathy. The rules of the senate are hopeless. Improvement would have to be deferred to the next world."

Senator Goff (Rep., W. Va.) thought it "a constructive speech, full of common sense," but Senator McKellar (Dem., Tenn.) said it was "a deplorable performance. I am sorry."

Calls It Ridiculous Thing.
Other comment was as follows: SENATOR ROBINSON (Dem., Ark.)—The ceremonies are necessarily formal. It is regrettable that they were made ridiculous.

SENATOR PAT HARRISON (Dem., Miss.)—If I gave a statement of what I think it would set your paper on fire. What I have to say may be said on the floor of the senate later.

SENATOR WILLIS (Rep., O.)—With regard to the Vice President's speech I want to say that I am going to the barber shop to get a haircut and a shave.

Senator Norris (Rep., Neb.) said he had an opinion of the Dawes address but was not going to express it.

Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho) refused to comment but expressed the opinion that the senate rules would not be revised in the near future.

SENATOR KING (Dem., Utah) does not think the rules should be revised. Said he: "The Vice President has much to learn that was fully demonstrated by his speech as well as his conduct before the work of the senate was completed. The diatribe against the senate and its rules was as intemperate as it was unwarranted."

"The country would be much better off if the rules of the senate afforded more opportunity to defeat fantastic and foolish measures."

COOLIDGE GRAY FILLS THE PLACE OF HARDING BLUE

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[By the Associated Press.]—Harding blue, the new shade brought out four years ago by Mrs. Harding, had its counterpart today in "Coolidge gray," the predominant tone of Mrs. Coolidge's costume for the inauguration ceremonies.

The new color is known as "moonstone," a shade deeper and warmer than pearl. The costume of Mrs. Coolidge was of ensemble effect, American designed and American made. The coat and lower portion of the gown were of a light woolen material, known as "Jocelyn cloth," somewhat of a cross between duvetyne and kasha.

The coat was embroidered in gray silk, which in turn was with a thread of oxidized silver, dropped from the shoulders to the hem of the garment, and at the sides the broad line of the panel was at the bottom with points running upwards under the arms. With it was a collar of gray fox. The upper portion of the gown was of gray satin crepe.

Mrs. Coolidge's hat was of soft mill straw, rather high crowned and small brimmed, trimmed across the top from side to side with a band of burnt goose. Her slippers were gray as well as her hose.

The costume of Mrs. Dawes was a blue spring suit, with hat to match. Asked what shade of blue, Mrs. Dawes told friends: "It's blue. Navy? Midnight? No, just blue."

GINGER PUTS A DASH OF DOGGY PEP IN PARADE

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[By the Associated Press.]—President Coolidge had an uninvited, but not unwelcome, guest at his inauguration. More than a score of governors of states either declined invitations or didn't show up, but this particular uninvited guest came early, stayed late, saw the show to the end, and had a busy time of it.

He was Ginger, the dog of troop F, 4th cavalry. Some folks might call Ginger a bulldog. Perhaps he thinks he is one, but he bears without shame on his escutcheon the bar sinister.

Ginger made the long trip afoot from Fort Myer and arrived feeling pretty good. Ceremoniously he waddled right into the White House grounds, shielded by two of his friends—the horses—and when President Coolidge and Vice President Dawes came out for the trip to the capitol, Ginger walked along down Pennsylvania avenue with the procession, important in the knowledge that he was the only dog in the inaugural ceremony.

Dawes Demands Senate Change Its Hoary, Obstructive Rules So That Public May Be Served More Efficiently

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—[By the Associated Press.]—The text of the inaugural speech of Vice President Charles G. Dawes follows:

"What I say on entering this office should relate to its administration and the conditions under which it is administered. Unlike the vast majority of deliberative and legislative bodies, the senate does not elect its presiding officer. He is designated for his duty by the constitution of the United States.

"In the administration of this office his duty is to be concerned with methods of effectively procedure, as distinguished from any legislative policy of the body over which he presides. It is not for the Vice President to be personally concerned with the interests of political parties or with the policies or projects involved in legislative action, save in that unusual contingency where, under the constitution, it becomes necessary for him to cast the deciding vote in case of a tie.

Must Not Guide Legislation.

"Nor should he, in view of that unusual contingency, assume any attitude toward prospective legislation until the contingency occurs. Any other course would inevitably lessen the weight of his influence in those impartial and nonpartisan matters with which it is his duty, under the constitution, to be concerned.

"In my conduct I trust I may yield to no senator in fairness, courtesy, and kindness, and in deference to those unwritten laws which always govern any association of gentlemen, whether official or private.

"It shall be my purpose not to transgress in any way those limits to my official activity determined by the constitution and by proper parliamentary procedure. But the Vice President, in part because he is not elected by the members of this body, nor by a state, but by the people of the United States, and his constitutional and official relations are to the senate as a whole, should always express himself on the relations of its methods of transacting public business to the welfare of the nation.

Duty to End Inefficiency.
"For him, therefore, to officially call to the attention of the senate any individual or group of individuals.

How Situation Evolved.
"It has evolved as a natural consequence of the mutual confidence of high minded men, and of the individual senators themselves toward a proposed system of rules if this was the first session of the senate of the United States instead of the sixty-ninth."

Hoary Old Custom Assailed.
"What individual senator would then have the audacity to propose the adoption of the present rule 22 without modification when it would be pointed out that during the last days of the session the right that is granted every senator to be heard for one hour after two-thirds of the senate had agreed to bring a measure to a vote, gave a minority of even one senator, at times, power to defeat the measure and render impotent the senate itself?"

"That rule which at times enables senators to consume in oratory those last precious minutes of a session needed for momentous decisions, places in the hand of one or of a minority of right of any individual senator. "What would be the attitude of the American people and of the individual senators themselves toward a proposed system of rules if this was the first session of the senate of the United States instead of the sixty-ninth?"

Reform Is Indispensable.
"Reform in the present rules of the senate is demanded not only by American public opinion, but I venture to say in the individual consciences of a majority of the members of the senate itself."

"As it is the duty on the part of the presiding officer of the senate to call attention to defective methods in the conduct of business by the body over which he presides, so, under their constitutional power, it is the duty of the members of this body to correct them. To evade or ignore an issue between right and wrong methods is in itself a wrong.

"To the performance of this duty—a duty which is nonpartisan—a duty which is nonsectional—a duty which is alone in the interest of the nation we have sworn to faithfully serve—I ask the consideration of the senate, appealing to the conscience and to the patriotism of the individual members."

always govern any association of gentlemen."

Even when the general was uttering those placatory words his manner was intense, but the senators took the manner as part of the man and the words were greeted with good natured and rather patronizing nods.

At the start the speaker's tone was thin, nasal and shrill, but not menacing.

Soon after the "courtesy and kindness" assurance he began to shout and wildly to wave his arms.

His Audience Gets Excited.
At the conclusion of his address a burst of excited comment filled the chamber.

Senator Reed (Dem., Mo.), who, during the first part of the address, had covered his face with his hands to hide his laughter, now turned his head away from Gen. Dawes and shouted with laughter. A little later, while on his way to the inauguration of President Coolidge at the east portico, Senator Reed with his tongue in his cheek—which is where it usually is, for he is the most sarcastic man in the senate—said of the new Vice President:

"His melody of voice, grace of gesture and majesty of presence were only excelled by his modesty."

Senator Robinson (Dem., Ark.) overheard him and drawled, "Dawes showed as little knowledge of the senate's rules as he did good taste—not quite as little, but nearly."

Republicans Are Nonplused.
Amid the senatorial confusion, chatter, and amusement of what has already taken place in the senate's annals as "Dawes' first day" there was one thoroughly happy senator. He was the insurgent, Brookhart of Iowa, who beamingly remarked, "I am no longer the wild man of the senate!"

Republican senators were mostly dumb for print, although massive Senator Watson of Indiana, the new Republican whip, who was red with anger, was vocal enough as he paced along.

It was Senator Watson who finally pulled the senate out of the plight in which its new Vice President had left it. For in his excitement Dawes forgot to either recess or adjourn the body he had just spanked.

After his harangue came the ceremony of swearing in the thirty-two senators elected to the new sixty-ninth congress, and in times past that has always been a solemn ceremony, the senate's presiding officer uttering the words of the oath he is administering slowly and in a hushed but measured tone.

Sworn In by the Wholesaler.
The senators, by ancient custom, came to the presidential rostrum in groups of four to take the oath.

Two such groups of senators entered. Then with a gesture and in a tone of impatience he called out to the remaining twenty-four and their escorting colleagues:

"O, bring 'em all up! This is too slow! Bring 'em all together! Come on here!"

At that grave, stately men like the octogenarian Warren and the precise, ceremonious young Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, pretty nearly expired with shock.

But Dawes had it his way and no essential rule was broken. Most of the senators sat staring grins, and shrugged their shoulders.

Then came something not so funny. All new senators must sign their names on the senate roll in order to validate themselves and the body which they have entered.

Dawes omitted this, and called out: "The ceremonies will be out in front. The sergeant at arms will take charge of the senate," meaning that Mr. Barry would escort the senators to the east portico.

The senate, by this time utterly dumfounded, broke up in disorder and without adjournment.

Senator Ashurst (Dem., Ariz.) was protesting vehemently the while.

Descending from the dais, the Vice President warmly shook hands with several of the flabbergasted conscript fathers, calling cheerily to others, "Come on!"

He was seen no more in the senate. After the portico ceremonies, which in contrast to the senatorial grins, and calm and peaceful, Senator Watson returned to the chamber and set the place in order, legislatively speaking. The newly elected senators got themselves enrolled and adjournment until noon tomorrow was effected.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—Feeling as peppy as if he had not just gone through the most spectacular day of his colorful career, Vice President Dawes tonight was receiving the congratulations of his friends on his speech.
Receiving the vice presidency did not change him one iota. Neither did it change the ordered routine of his daily life. He is accustomed to having his daily nap at 5 o'clock, and this afternoon, while Washington gasped over his unparalleled attack on the senate rules and senators were getting out statements, Dawes was taking a nap.
"I've Had My Say."
When he arose newspaper men showed him the sarcastic comments of senators, but he refused to talk further. "I've had my say," he said, "let them have theirs."
But while talking to a group of Legion men from Marietta, O., a few moments later he was unable to keep from taking another dig at the senate. Noticing Senator Willis (Rep., O.) in the group, he asked him how he liked his speech.
"Of course, what you senators think does not make any real difference,"

OLD INAUGURAL BALL YIELDS TO SOCIAL LUSTER

Brilliant Company Dances to Hostess Charity.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—The Charity Inaugural ball tonight was the most brilliantly successful ball in the social history of the capital, lacking only the presence of the President and Mrs. Coolidge to make it technically, as it was actually, an official inaugural ball.

Instead of the old-time inaugural ball, formerly held in the pillared rotunda of the pension office, and attended by a decidedly mixed assemblage in costumes varying from street clothes to evening dress, the ball with which the Coolidge inauguration day came to an end was one of the most distinguished social functions ever held in Washington.

Practically all officialdom was in attendance, including cabinet officers, diplomats, governors of states with their staffs, and officers of the army and navy, all in full uniform; well-known men and women from every section of the country, and distinguished visitors from abroad, the whole affair having been organized by a group of socially prominent residents of Washington and other centers of American society under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Allan Dougherty.

Mrs. Dawes Guest of Honor.
The Vice President and Mrs. Dawes represented the administration tonight as Vice President and Mrs. Coolidge did on a similar occasion four years ago, when the first charity inaugural ball was given at the suggestion of Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh and Mrs. Dougherty. And as Mrs. Coolidge did that night, so Mrs. Dawes tonight made immediate conquest of official and unofficial Washington.

Her appearance in the vice presidential box at the end of the grand ballroom of the Mayflower hotel was greeted with instant and prolonged applause, and she listened from bowing and smiling her acknowledgments with a pretty dignity and gracious simplicity of manner.

She was a stately little figure in heavy ivory white crepe, cut in straight lines, and embroidered in white silk and pearls, with a few crystal beads worked into the design, and the low giraffe fastening in front with swinging ropes of white silk fringe. At once distinguished and conservative in cut, the gown had short cap sleeves, a round neck no lower than many an afternoon frock, and a sash train of cloth of silver.

Applaud Miles and Dawes.

One of the most engaging incidents of the evening took place when Gen. Nelson A. Miles, in the full dress uniform of a lieutenant general, entered the box to greet Gen. and Mrs. Dawes. As he stood shaking hands with the Vice President the people on the floor stopped dancing and applauded. Quickly the old general dropped the hand of Mr. Dawes and stepped back and joined in the applause. Instantly the Vice President sought his hand and drew him again to the center of the box, and, stepping back, in his turn applauded the general, at which both laughter and applause swept the floor and the galleries.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—The stateswoman who received a setback today when Mrs. Mae E. Nolan of San Francisco, the only woman in the sixty-eighth congress, terminated her service of more than two years without having made a speech on the floor.

She completed the unexpired term of her late husband and was elected in her own right, but did not make a speech on the floor.

In the next congress Mrs. Florence Kahn, also of San Francisco, widow of the late representative from California, and Mrs. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey, first woman Democrat to be elected to the house, will be the only women members. Mrs. Nolan plans to spend some time in Washington before returning to San Francisco.

STEEL EMPLOYEES DO NOT EXHAUST STOCK OFFERING

New York, March 4.—For the first time in several years employees of the United States Steel corporation have failed to subscribe for the full allotment of 100,000 shares of common stock which is offered to them annually on special subscription terms.

The corporation announced today that orders were received this year for $2,948 shares from 39,470 employees. The failure to dispose of the entire amount was attributed to the fact that this year's offering at $125 a share was made during the week when the stock established its year's high price at 129 1/2. Before the subscription rights expired on Feb. 21 it had fallen below 125, and today closed at 122 1/2.

Last year's offering of 100,000 shares at $100 a share was heavily oversubscribed, more than 50,000 employees placing orders for a total of 154,363 shares.

MUSSOLINI, MUCH BETTER, TAKES UP STATE MATTERS

ROME, March 4.—[By the Associated Press.]—Premier Mussolini, who has been ill for a number of days with influenza, apparently has virtually recovered and has resumed, from his apartment, the conduct of matters of state. Roberto Farinacci, secretary of the Fascist party, issued this statement in reply to numerous conflicting reports as to the premier's condition: "Premier Mussolini has almost entirely recovered, so much so that every day he has a number of conversations with prominent people and is actively following the development of political events."

It was denied emphatically that any operation had been performed on the premier and, as evidence of his recovery, it was pointed out that he already has convoked the chamber of deputies for March 5.

NO GLITTER, NO FRILLS, BUT IT'S PARADE, ANYWAY

And One of Shortest on Inaugural Record.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—For fifty minutes this afternoon the cream of the military and naval services and representatives of the state governments passed before President Calvin Coolidge to pledge, by way of snappy salute and doffing of hat, their fidelity to the nation's commander in chief.

It was one of the shortest and best parades in the history of inaugurations, witnesses of other similar functions asserted. There was not an unnecessary thing in the procession. There were few feathers and nothing that savored of a jubilee spirit. It was the epitome of brevity and a genuine efficiency.

Mrs. Coolidge Smiles, Bows.

The weak March sun was still shining over the west shoulder of the White House a few minutes after 2 when a squadron of the 3d cavalry clattered through the bluff and billowy crowd of honor. Alongside them rolled the presidential car. A cheer went up—an echo of the ripple that had marked the progress of the car for the whole mile from the capitol—and Mrs. Coolidge smiled and bowed graciously to the crowds.

A moment later the car shot into the White House driveway, while the cavalry troops stood in line with salute and colors dipped, and the presidential hat was replaced for the first time during the ride down Pennsylvania avenue.

Then came the cars bearing Vice President and Mrs. Dawes, the congressional escort, members of the cabinet, the aides and a gaudy band composed of members of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Scarcely fifteen minutes after the party reached the executive mansion, President and Mrs. Coolidge and Vice President and Mrs. Dawes entered the glass enclosed reviewing stand.

Just a Fair Sized Crowd.
It was just what might be termed a comfortable crowd that filled the last-fashioned and flag-draped court of honor. The sidewalk spaces in front of the White House were thrown open to the public a few moments before the parade came along, but even then there was no crush.

The presidential party had been in the reviewing stand nearly fifteen minutes before the police escort swung into the avenue from 16th street. Then came the grand marshal, Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, and his staff; the huge gray uniformed army band, the olive drab 12th infantry, a battalion of engineers with their band, the 16th service squadron, air service; the 16th and 6th field artilleries, including battery F of the latter with their famous white horses; a battalion of snoring, rumbling light tanks and a long train of quartermaster trucks.

The medal covered, snappy stepping Quantico marines and the scarlet coasted marine band received great applause. Gov. Pinchot, clad in a long black coat and riding a horse at the head of his staff, shared honors in the gubernatorial welcome with Gov. Nellie Ross of Wyoming, Gov. Ritchie of Maryland and Gov. Trinkle of Virginia.

CAL'S VOICE IS CARRIED ACROSS NATION BY RADIO

Thousands of Chicagoans Hear Ceremony.

While the inauguration of other years was attended merely by thousands, yesterday's simple and impressive ceremonies in Washington were attended by millions and most of them did it via radio.

That vast and invisible force which picks up everything that is tossed to it, carried the message of the President, the solemn oath of office and all the rest of it broadcast over the land to state and city, farm house, village and hamlet where a radio set was available.

1,250 at Meeting Here.

Perhaps the largest local meeting was that of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the La Salle hotel. Here 1,250 men and women gathered while the loud speaker was put at work. Among the many prominent Chicagoans present at this meeting was William R. Dawes, cousin of the Vice President.

Thirty or more of the city's schools were equipped with radio instruments and it was estimated at the board of education that at least 10,000 children listened in for a great civic lesson.

This was made a part of the day's regular class work in the schools. At the Tilden high school 1,600 pupils heard it all via the loud speaker.

Federal Employees Listen.
At the Federal building a loud speaker had been set up in Judge Page's courtroom and 1,000 federal employees crowded in to get the inauguration.

Another great phenomenon of the day was the almost lightning like transmission of the photographs of the inauguration over the wires of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Pictures of President Coolidge taking the oath of office were transmitted in a few minutes to New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

POSES AS WIFE SO LOVER CAN OBTAIN DIVORCE

Episode Lands Pair in Jail for Night.

A woman posed as the wife of the man she loves in a divorce court yesterday so that he would be free to marry her.

Judge Joseph Sabath, in whose court the play was enacted, called it the most peculiar divorce case in his memory. He sent the man in the case and the woman with her 3 year old son to the county jail for the night. They will appear before him at 1 o'clock this afternoon to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt of court.

The woman is Mrs. Helen Frederick, 147 Ellis avenue. Her son, Gordon, whom she carried into court, is by a previous marriage. The man is James Grippando, 848 South May street, a painter. He has been married six years.

Starts Three Weeks Ago.

The story of the dramatic divorce case begins three weeks ago. At that time a man and a woman went to Attorney Henry Perlman, said they were Mr. and Mrs. James Grippando, and asked him to obtain their divorce. Perlman went to work on the bill.

The bill was filed and docketed to Judge Sabath. Then Perlman became suspicious. "They were too friendly," he says. He investigated and found "Mrs. Grippando" was not Grippando's wife, but the woman he loved. He told his suspicions to Judge Sabath, who ordered him to take the case to trial.

Mrs. Frederick, under oath on the stand, testified the child she held, who said when she attempted to leave it behind, was Peter Grippando. "His brother, that's Jimmie, is at home," she declared.

Both Give Testimony.

"My husband left me a year and a half ago," she said, pointing out Grippando. "He doesn't love me any more so I want a divorce."

Grippando, on the stand, corroborated her testimony to the last date. Miss Catherine Nelson, 2802 Ellis avenue, testified she had seen the two living together as man and wife and believed them to be married.

"Mrs. Grippando" was recalled to the stand. "Isn't your name Frederick?" asked Judge Sabath.

Admits She Is Not Wife.

She hung her head, then whispered: "Yes, it is. But I love him. This is the only way we could find so that we could be really married."

Ald. Bert A. Cronson, prosecuting the case, had the real Mrs. Anna Grippando sent for at her home at 1011 South Paulina street. She arrived in half an hour.

She was sent to the witness stand, then told a divorce bill had been filed in her name. She couldn't understand at first.

"Me get a divorce?" she asked. "I don't want a divorce. I don't believe in divorces. Deep down in my heart I know my husband doesn't love me and he's left me, but he's been taking care of our two children. Let him live with her if he wants to, but don't give him a divorce."

"I feel nothing but sympathy for the two women," Judge Sabath said after adjournment. "but Grippando knows better. An example will have to be made in this case."

He appointed Attorney Robert E. Cantwell to defend the pair.

THAT OLD, OLD TRIANGLE

Judge Joseph Sabath sent a husband and the woman he loves to jail yesterday when the woman posed as his wife and attempted to obtain a divorce. (1) James Grippando, the man; (2) Mrs. Helen Frederick, the woman; and (3) the real wife, who did not know of the divorce proceedings until the judge summoned her to court.

GILLET, RETIRING, DISCUSSES CHANGING ORATORY IN CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., March 4.—In a valedictory in the house today Speaker Gillett, who later took the oath as senator from Massachusetts, declared he would "rather be speaker of the house than hold any other position in the world."

Declaring that oratory "is perhaps less fervent and effective" now than a generation ago, he expressed the opinion that the late Representative Bourke Cockran of New York was one of the greatest orators he had known in his thirty-two years as a member of the house.

"I think the house has less tolerance than formerly for second rate oratory, for the man who aims at the effect without the genuine qualification," he continued. "What really gives a man influence today is a fund of knowledge."

"Possibly the house is not as brilliant as it was thirty years ago. It is certainly not as dissipated. It does more work, in my opinion. The average ability, industry, and serious devotion to duty is higher today than when I came."

Be Named Soon.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—Steps toward the organization of the new congress will be taken in both houses tomorrow.

The Republican committee on committees of the new house has been called to meet tomorrow, and with Representative Tilson (Rep., Conn.), the new party leader, as chairman, will seek to fill principal committee vacancies.

Senate to Name Moses.

The program of senate Republicans is to nominate tomorrow morning Senator Moses (Rep., N. H.) for president pro tempore of the senate and various other officers. These nominations will be submitted tomorrow noon and ratified at once.

Tomorrow's conference of Republican senators also will authorize Senator Curtis (Rep., Kas.) as Republican senators also will select a committee on committees. Senator Watson (Rep., Ind.) as chairman of the committee on committees.

Senator Densen (Rep., Ill.), who succeeds Senator McCormick in the senate, has been assigned to the judiciary committee and other committees of less importance. The McCormick place on the foreign relations committee will go to Senator Capper (Rep., Kas.).

New Management Forces a FINAL CLEARANCE OF ALL MERCHANDISE FROM THE PAST SEASON

Begins Thursday and Continues
Throughout the Week

GEORGE BERNARDS' NEW MANAGEMENT is ready to offer a sale that will force out every piece of merchandising from the past season. Its policy will be to maintain a "clean house" at all times, never carrying a garment over from one season to the next. All present stocks, excluding new spring apparel, have been marked down to ridiculous prices. Although this merchandise is not as desirable now as it was when originally purchased we believe the low markings will prompt thousands of women to come here tomorrow to participate in values that we guarantee will be of unprecedented importance.

Silk Dresses

Here, madam, is a group of Dresses that we know will attract an unusual response. It includes models that originally sold up to $49, but as the season is now at an end we offer them at a sacrifice to make room for more desirable goods. There are frocks for street, afternoon and dance wear in the wanted silk fabrics. Your choice, at just

$10

Silk Dresses

This group of Silk Dresses is even more appealing, for it includes styles that can be worn at the present time. Although most of them were formerly priced as high as $85 we have re-marked them at a price we believe is consistent with the clearance idea. You will agree, however, that the values are exceptional at the low clearance price of

$18

Beaded Gowns for Future Use

We realize that no woman can use a beaded Gown at this time, but with such low prices in force we know there are many far-sighted women who will grasp these lovely creations for next Fall and Winter wear. The original prices have absolutely been ignored in marking these beaded Gowns and Frocks down to a price that will dispose of them quickly. They await your choosing at only

Fur Trimmed Coats

Here are garments that are still in season, yet we have reduced them as drastically as the dresses. This lot at $25 will cause no end of comment, for it includes every coat formerly priced up to $89. You may have purchased a new coat this winter, but we believe that when you see these lovely models you will eagerly select one and lay it aside for next season.

Ensembles

We still have a few winter ensemble Suits left and if you can wear a size 36, 38 or 40 (the only ones remaining) we assure you the greatest value you have ever seen. The selection is limited to 42 suits, including models formerly priced from $59 to $165. It seems inconceivable, yet we offer them at just

$39

Fur Coats Extremely Low Priced

This is hardly the time to buy Furs but with such low prices prevailing we advise buying now as a real investment for next season. The selection at $55 includes only Northern Seals but the quality is unequalled. In fact, these Coats were priced up to $135 at the beginning of the season. Every woman can afford a Fur Coat at such a price as

$55

Fur Jaquettes

Caraculs in cocoa, beige and bronze, either plain or with fox collars. The close-out price is just about one-third to one-fourth the original markings.

Linoleum will not bulge

when laid by

The Richardson-Method

By our method we use an extra heavy rag felt as an inner lining between the Linoleum and your Floor. This felt is first glued to the floor and the Linoleum in turn glued and cemented to the felt lining. After each process the felt and the Linoleum are both rolled with a heavy roller to assure perfect "adhesion." This felt equalizes the contraction and expansion of the floor which has been the cause of most Linoleum bulging.

Our organization is specially trained in the technique so essential to laying Linoleum the best way.

When Linoleum is laid by the Richardson-Method, the work is completed in one operation, therefore it is not necessary for the workmen to go back from time to time to take out bulges and upset the room.

DRYS AMEND ACT CREATING STATE COMMISSIONER

Appointive Power Placed in Attorney General.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—[Special.]—To meet strenuous objections from some of its friends, the Anti-Saloon league has made a big change in its bill for the creation of the office of state prohibition enforcement commissioner, which will be introduced in the house of representatives tomorrow by Hon. J. T. Rice of Greenview. The bill provides for the appointment of a commissioner, a deputy commissioner, five squad leaders, and twenty-five field agents. As originally drafted, it placed the appointing power in the hands of Gov. Small. As it will be presented this power will be given to Attorney General Carlstrom.

"This is in answer to objections that have been made to me," said Maj. F. E. Hart, state superintendent for the dry league. "There is no more reason why the power of appointment should be given to the governor than to the attorney general, to whose hands previous legislatures have insisted should be entrusted the work of enforcement. This will not change the present situation except that it will vitalize the enforcement work."

Appropriation Fight Opens.

The usual monotony of house proceedings was broken today by the first bill on state expenditures. It was a forerunner of the debate expected when the house takes up Representative John P. Devine's amendment to the rules requiring department heads to file reports of their expenditures with the appropriations committee, for its guidance in voting further funds.

Rep. Arthur Roe of Vandalia, Democratic floor leader, started it by asking postponement of action on an emergency appropriation of $60,000 for the state auditor's office until action on that amendment had been had.

Charges of Soft Jobs.

The debate brought out charges that County Clerk L. A. Hendee of Lake county drew pay as a deputy game warden on the state pay roll for three months last year and that 2,000 temporary employees were on the rolls during the primaries last spring.

Aldermanic aspirations of also rans in some Chicago wards, including members of the legislature, were said to be behind a bill introduced by Peter S. Krump to provide for two aldermen from each of Chicago's fifty wards. When the fifty ward bill was passed the chief arguments were that it meant undivided responsibility and a money saving in contrast to the old system of thirty-five wards with two aldermen each.

At an afternoon meeting Chairman Swanson of the judiciary committee appointed a subcommittee to conduct hearings on the several deadly weapon bills.

DAY IN SPRINGFIELD

HOUSE.

Bills passed to extend to July 1 the time for filing state bonus applications; to make $6,000 emergency appropriation for state auditor.

Bills introduced—By Cola, to permit home manufacture of wine; by Elrod, to continue in force emergency land-lord-tenant legislation of 1921 concerning evictions; by Gibson, to require sterilization of inmates of state institutions; by Krump, to provide for two aldermen in each of Chicago's fifty wards; by Mitchell, to create racing commission and authorize pari-mutuel system of betting; by Swanson, to allow issuance of free street car transportation to sheriffs and deputies.

Hearing on gun toting bill set before judiciary subcommittee at 2 p. m. March 18.

STERILIZATION BILL INTRODUCED IN LEGISLATURE

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—[By Associated Press.]—Sterilization of idiots, imbeciles, epileptic, and insane persons and habitual criminals would be provided for in Illinois if a bill introduced in the house today by Representative John W. Gibson of Chicago becomes a law. Dr. Francis Blanchard of Wheaton, chairman of the committee on eugenics and sociology of the Illinois Woman's Christian Temperance union, is sponsor for the measure.

Administration of the law would be placed in the hands of five physicians. Provision is made for an appeal from their decision to the circuit court. Appeal also may be made by the person affected, his next of kin, or legal guardian.

Dr. Blanchard tonight said that twelve states had adopted such a measure.

STAGE LOVE OF IAN KEITH ENDS HIS HOME LIFE

Blanche Yurka Wins Suit for Separation.

New York, March 4.—[Special.]—Blanche Yurka, actress, now playing the leading role in the "Wild Duck," produced by Equity actors, won a separation today from Ian Keith, who actor to whom she was married on Sept. 6, 1922, in Chicago. At the time of their marriage he was 23 and she, according to his statement, was "at least 23."

Keith's real name is McCauley. It was he who started the separation action, but Miss Yurka appeared in court today with a counter suit which was uncontested. The couple parted company after she had openly charged Keith with transferring his affections to Miss Marjorie Rambeau.

Her Story of the Break.
Recounting some of the details of her alleged unhappy experience with her young husband, Miss Yurka said: "On April 22, 1923, we attended a party given by Mrs. Ouida Fitzmaurice in honor of Mr. Keith and Miss Rambeau, who were playing Orlando and Rosalind in 'As You Like It.' When we returned to our apartment that night and I attempted to explain to him that his attentions to Miss Rambeau in the presence of others at a private party might be construed, he surprised me by saying: 'That's all right! I love Marjorie of the stage just as much as I do in the play.'"

Asks $250 Weekly Alimony.
Miss Yurka asked the court to award her $250 weekly alimony and $2,500 alimony fees in addition to $2,100 back alimony. Decision was reserved. It was stated that Keith now has a salary from stage and movies of $50,000 a year.

While the formal decree of separation was not signed the court informed Miss Yurka that sufficient evidence had been offered to entitle her to a separation.

Freed on Murder Count; Jailed as Dry Violator

Harry McCarthy, 1112 North Clark street, recently freed by a jury on grounds of self defense in the killing of Henry Carr was yesterday sentenced to serve six months by Judge Henry M. Walker on violation of prohibition charge. Police testified that when they went to McCarthy's home the day Carr was killed they found several barrels of beer.

SPECIAL BALLOT LIKELY TO FILL KOSTNER'S PLACE

Many Besides Widow Are Seeking Job.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

There probably will be no special election in the Twenty-third ward on April 7 to name a successor to the late Ald. Joseph O. Kostner.

This became apparent yesterday when the election commission obtained semi-official opinions that the present city council is without authority to declare a vacancy in the next council. Officials covering the question are expected today from the corporation counsel's office and Joseph B. Fleming, attorney for the election board.

As a result of this technicality Mayor Dever is expected to veto the ordinance calling the special election. The Kostner vacancy then probably will be filled at a special election called by the new council shortly after it meets following the April 7 election.

To Fix Election Date.
The commissioners indicated they would be guided by the opinions, the gist of which they got yesterday. Meantime a whole field of candidates is preparing to enter the race, waiting only for the date of the special election to be fixed subsequent to the April 7 run-off in fourteen other wards and the city-wide referendum on the Dever traction plan.

The regular Democratic Twenty-third ward organization endorsed John Toman, member of the board of local

Would Quit Austria

VIENNA, March 4.—[By Associated Press.]—Baron Ferdinand Pantis, leader of the Austrian separatists, today announced that the separatists were appealing to the allies to revise the treaty of St. Germain in order to permit the Alpine provinces to sever political relations with Vienna.

The separatists say the reconstruction scheme of the league of nations will fail because the federal government is unable to enforce its authority in face of the obstruction of the Vienna Socialists.

The separatists are eager to save the Alpine provinces, which, due to their natural resources, are self-supporting. If Vienna were proclaimed a free city, the separatists say, its favorable geographical position would save it, particularly if by revision of the electoral system the Socialists were defeated.

Improvements and formerly Kostner's council mate from the old Thirty-third ward. Although plans were made for circulating her petitions, it is believed that the endorsement of Toman by the Democratic regulars will eliminate Mrs. Florence Custy Kostner, the widow, as a formidable candidate.

Schmidt Still Gaining.
George K. Schmidt, Republican, has picked up 109 of the 425 votes he lacked in his race with Michael K. Sheridan, Democrat, for a seat on the board of assessors in 1925. It was announced yesterday. This gain was made in thirteen of the forty-three precincts that are being recounted.

RIVAL FLEETS IN PLAY WAR LACK SCOUTS IN AIR

Both Handicapped as Contact Nears.

Aboard U. S. S. Seattle, March 4.—[By the Associated Press.]—Day and night 100 naval warcraft of the United States navy, with auxiliary airplanes, are on an alert search over hundreds of miles of sea off the coast of Mexico in one of the greatest peace time naval maneuvers on the Pacific.

Two great forces are steadily, yet cautiously, approaching a contact, involving determination of whether an enemy fleet would be successful in establishing an operating base for a campaign against the Pacific coast.

Black Fleet Invades.
The invading force is known as the Black fleet and includes the greater sea power represented in nine battleships, with the support of a light cruiser, destroyers, mine sweepers and aircraft squadrons. The defensive force embraces the more speedy cruise-ers—three divisions of them—several divisions of destroyers and submarines, together with mine planting and mine sweeping units.

While the invading force—the Black fleet—in concentrated cruising formation necessary for the protection of its train of supply ships is cruising toward its objective, the protective Blue fleet is making progress up the coast. Cruisers, submarines, destroyers, supplemented by aircraft from the cruisers, form the chief eyes of detection with which the Blue fleet conducts its search for the enemy.

Few Scout Planes.

Scouting, attack with unsupported light forces, submarine attack, and refueling at sea are the main tactical problems involved. Actual ranging visibility of each fleet is approximately thirty miles while in formation, with effective range lengthened by aircraft, although neither force has sufficient aircraft squadrons to effectively scout thoroughly very far beyond.

RICKARD PLANS BOXING BOOM IN YANK STADIUM

SAMMY ENTERS TOURNEY

NEW YORK, March 4.—Sammy Mandell, Rockford, Ill., lightweight, who has heretofore been a holdout in the New York state athletic commission's lightweight tournament, today joined the ranks of boxers seeking the 135 pound crown left without an owner when Benny Leonard retired from the ring. Eddie Kane, Mandell's manager, notified the commission today—Mandell would accept the nomination and compete in the tournament.

New York, March 4.—[By Associated Press.]—Tex Rickard concluded negotiations today for a one year lease of the Yankee stadium for boxing purposes and disclosed details of a fight program for the 1925 outdoor season that promises to boom the sport to proportions it has not enjoyed since 1923.

The promoter, who closed the deal for the stadium with Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, has matched Jack Dempsey and Paul Benenbach, for a return match at the attraction of the opening card at the stadium on May 22.

Wills, Gibbons Next.

Harry Wills and Tom Gibbons, lead in heavyweight challenges, probably will be the principals in the second show at the ball park, staged under Rickard's direction for the benefit of the Milk Fund on June 23 or 24. This bout has been in process of negotiation for some time, to establish an outstanding challenger for Jack Dempsey.

Champions in most divisions are being sought by Rickard for important title bouts. Cannonball Martin, bantamweight title holder, has agreed to defend his crown outdoors, providing he retains it in his match March 20, at Madison Square Garden with Phil Rosenberg.

Walker Ready for Bout.

Rickard desires to match Martin with the winner of the bout between Harold Smith of Chicago, and Bushy Graham of Utica, N. Y., who clash in a semi-final to the Rosenberg-Martin go. Martin also has in prospect a battle at the stadium with Pancho Villa, Filipino holder of the world's flyweight title.

Mickey Walker, welterweight king, also is ready to defend his title under Rickard's auspices. If the present ban placed on him by the New York state athletic commission is lifted.

MONDT-ROMANO ON ST. PATRICK'S DAY PROBABLE

Joe "Toots" Mondt, who defeated Stanislaus Zhyzko at the Coliseum Tuesday night, probably will be selected to meet Mike Romano in the main event of the wrestling show to be staged by John Krone and Charles Cutler in the Coliseum March 17.

Mondt has made a decided impression upon local fans, who are eager to see him take holds with the Italian champion. "Toots" put up a great catch with Lewis at the Coliseum a short time ago, while Mondt handled Zhyzko much easier than Lewis ever did in any of their matches.

Jack McCarthy, who employed the rough tactics against Mike Romano at the Tuesday night Coliseum show, has been signed to meet Richard Schickel, the German, in one of the matches at the Star and Garden on Friday night. Lou Falber, world's midweight champion, and John Kilgus will take holds in the feature.

Promoter Harmon, who will stage a mat show at the Druryland rink, March 11, has completed his card. Joe Sieber and Ivan Larkin will meet in a five round main event. Sieber will meet Arthur Bogans, and Jack Sherry will take holds with George Hill. In the other bout Jim London will clash with Joe Porzi.

WINTER SPORTS HAVE BIG YEAR

Winter sports in the west parks have been exceptionally successful this year, according to E. A. Dyce, director of the athletic activities. The basketball season which has just closed proved particularly successful, forty-five teams having entered the tourney, with only two forfeited games through the entire season. The title went to Sheridan park.

Three teams, Dvorak, Holstein, and Sheridan parks, are tied for honors in the indoor baseball race.

Other meets which are planned include a wrestling tournament on March 7 and a checker tournament March 6 and 7.

SMITTY—BRAINS OVER BRAWN

YARDS BANTAM WILL GET CHANCE AT TITLE

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Harold Smith, the stockyards 118 pounder, who meets Eddie Anderson of Moline in one of the ten round bouts of Frank Mulken's boxing show at Milwaukee tomorrow night, will be the first outdoor opponent for Eddie Martin, the world's bantamweight champion, according to news received from eastern promoters yesterday by Manager Buck Montgomery.

After the Anderson bout tomorrow night Smith will return to Chicago to get in shape for his twelve round decision contest with Bushy Graham in New York City on March 20. Martin will defend his title against Phil Rosenberg on the same card. If Smith and Martin are the winners, then the hall will be matched for an outdoor show to be staged in the Yankee stadium.

Champ Ready for Gong.

Smith and Anderson finished local preparation at local gymnasiums yesterday. Smith boxed eight rounds at Mulken's and Anderson pulled on the leather for six sessions at the Arcade. Smith is well under 118 pounds, the weight both have agreed to make at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Anderson was a pound heavier after yesterday's work.

Bantamweight Champion Eddie Martin and Peter Rosenberg, the Filipino, who trade punches in the main event, finished the harder part of training in Milwaukee. Both will engage in light workouts today and then rest until they start for the auditorium on Friday night. A six and a four round bout complete the card.

Local Fans Going.

At least 400 local fans, including a large number from the stockyards, will make the trip on Sammy Wolf's special train which leaves from the Union depot at 5:50 o'clock tomorrow evening. Fourteen bouts, which will bring together six and eight round bouts, have been arranged for the weekly amateur show at the Mulken gymnasium tonight. The boxers have been evenly matched by Instructor Jimmy Gardner.

GIBBONS SIGNS FOR ST. PAUL GO

St. Paul, Minn., March 4.—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, has been signed for a ten round bout here March 17 with an opponent to be selected tomorrow. The fight will be substituted for the Gene Tunney-Harry Greb match which was postponed because of injuries Greb received in a fight with holdup men at Pittsburgh Sunday.

BORG SMASHES 400 YARD MARK

Miami, Fla., March 4.—Arne Borg of Sweden lowered the world's record for the 400 yard swim here today when he swam the distance in 4:35.2 seconds. The former record, held by Johnny Weissmuller, was 4:40.

Lake View High Golf Club to Have Regular Classes

BY MORROW KRUM.

Each year youth become a more important factor in the ancient and royal game of golf. Already young men and women, some of them scarcely out of their teens, have scrambled through the ranks of the old timers and boasted their names to glory.

Each year the old timers of the game are giving the youngsters more consideration, more opportunity to play, and more opportunity to learn the fine points of the pastime.

The latest development of this nature is the formation of the Lake View High School Golf Club. Although this organization has been operating for some months, it is just now reaching a stage of great importance in the daily lives of high school students.

There are more than seventy members of the Lake View club, and it's one of the most thriving associations in the city.

Amber Andrews, who was born in Scotland and who is one of the few professionals in America who has dropped the Scottish burrs in his conversation, has been booked to give weekly lessons to the Lake View club. He will lecture on golf in a regular high school classroom on Friday of each week.

Andrews asserts that the members of the club, and naturally the audience at his lectures, will be graded in golf as they are in their other studies. And after spring comes north again these students will be taken out on the links and given practical lessons.

George L. Turnbull, of Park Ridge is chairman of the greens committee of the Chicago District Golf association, according to an announcement made yesterday by Robert A. Gardner, president of the association. The committee also includes John T. Ling of Skokie and E. H. Van Nostrand of Ridge.

H. H. Webster, who once assisted Jack Hutchinson at Glen View, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to Salt Lake City, where he has accepted a job as professional.

Members of the Briarcliff Golf club and their guests last night at the Regal La Salle witnessed several reels of slow motion pictures of golfers.

After a 35 hole battle against Walter Becker in the semi-finals of the Chicago Beach Hotel trophy tournament Dr. L. L. Isenman and an easier time in the final round, defeating Capt. W. F. Russell, 5 and 4.

Officers and directors of the Golfmoor Golf club met last night at the Brevoort hotel to make arrangements for the opening of its eighteen hole course. The course is in fair shape and will be opened to the public as soon as weather conditions permit.

FARM AND GARDEN

It is no longer necessary to wait until the first of April to set the incubator or the first of May to buy baby chicks in this northern section. Lack of sunlight, of course, has a lot to do with leg weakness, but with the feeding facts now available it is safer to start in March.

With some of the new rationing nutrition specialists have worked out at the Wisconsin station, Barred Rock chicks can be started March 1 and developed to weigh around three pounds by the last of June. To get such gains and prevent leg weakness the chicks must have cod liver oil or egg yolk when they are not exposed to sunlight or ultra-violet light.

One of the most valuable publications for early chick raisers recently has been issued jointly by chemists and poultrymen at the University of Wisconsin. The new bulletin No. 371, "New Chick Feeding Facts," will be sent to flock owners who write to the Wisconsin experiment station.

I. S. U. THREATENS TO BAR CHICAGO ICE STARS

Suspension of Western Skating association ice stars for failure to compete in the international indoor championships, to be held at Pittsburgh Friday and Saturday, is threatened by the International Skating union, through Charles H. Goldsmith, secretary, in a wire received by Harry Berz, secretary of the western association, yesterday.

The I. S. U. official asserts members of the Western Skating association are entered in the Pittsburgh event and will be barred unless they appear. "The Western Skating association has no right to act in this matter," the telegram says in reference to the recent decision of the western association to keep its skaters at home for a year.

Harry Berz, who is acting for the W. S. A. in the absence of President Frank Kalteaux, says no western skaters entered the meet and that no suspension can result.

"Chicago skaters are out of condition now, and none could make the trip east at this time anyway," Secretary Berz said last night. Further action depends upon the reply to Berz's telegram.

Burned Evidence

By MRS. WILSON WOODROW

SYNOPSIS.
The story is being told by young Landis, junior member of a New York firm of lawyers, one of the richest clients of the firm, invites Landis to lunch at his home. The young lawyer is interested in the old man's granddaughter, Sara, a beautiful young society woman, who is Foodick's sole heir. Foodick tells Landis that Sara's father, his only son, had spent many years in South America, where he died. After his death a South American woman appeared at the Foodick home with baby Sara, the mother, the nurse said, had died soon after. Foodick had investigated the woman's story and found it to be true.

After lunching Madam Adelbon, a famous psychic, calls on Foodick and tells him she had been an intimate friend of Sara's mother in Buenos Aires, when Sara was an infant, and that when she had to leave the city on a theatrical tour she had left with Sara's mother all her jewels and a large sum of money. When she returned to Buenos Aires Sara's mother was dead and her property had disappeared. She had just received in a letter a demand that Foodick return her jewels and the money, with interest. A few days later the old man is found dead in his car. The case is in the hands of Police Inspector Curran. Landis tells him about Madam Adelbon, and advises him the medium had carried with her a list of jewels which had belonged to Sara's mother and written in the latter's handwriting, identical to a list in Sara's possession. Below Landis's list is a list of jewels which had belonged to Sara's mother. It is mysteriously drilled and rifled. Curran and Landis hasten over to the Foodick house and find that the letters are missing. The inspector questions Herbert, owner of the Foodick museum, and the old man's secretary, Miss O'Connor. Both have read alphas. Herbert claims he spent the hours between 6 and 11 at the house of Prof. Adelbon, but admits he had a Prof. Quigley, known to him slightly, to remain in the museum alone during the afternoon.

Johnson, a famous criminal lawyer of New York, is Adelbon's attorney. He invites Landis to dinner in his apartment, and there informs the younger lawyer that the client is about to sue Sara Foodick for the money and jewels she claims she left with Sara's mother.

Graham Smith, a reporter, who had covered the Foodick death for his paper, tells Landis he saw him in a downtown restaurant the night of the robbery with a crook known as Lord Harry. Alfred that Sara will meet with harm. Landis goes to the Foodick house to warn her. While there Curran telephones to say that Herbert has been killed on the street. Miss O'Connor faints at the news, under the impression that the victim is her brother, Lord Harry, and not Herbert, who is almost his double. She arrives when Lord Harry is being taken away. Landis had engaged him to open the safe for her, but he found the safe had already been opened.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.
A SHREWD GUESS.

I asked Lord Harry why he stayed so long in the museum the night of the robbery when he found the safe empty.
"Partly to make sure that the letters I was to get were not there," he answered, "and partly to decide who had done the job."

"Was Miss Foodick with you?"

"No. I saw her later in a downtown restaurant where we had agreed to meet."

"You were entirely alone in the museum then?"

"Yes."

"Hold hard there!"

"My sister was with me. She helped me search for the letters."

"And neither of you removed anything from the safe—for Miss Foodick, of course?"

"Neither," he drawled, and then his eyes twinkled, "there was nothing left but a letter from Miss Foodick, my sister, or myself."

I shot my next question at him suddenly.

"Do you know Hereward Achison, the criminal lawyer?"

"There was a slight twitch in a muscle in the side of his face, which showed I had taken him by surprise, but he recovered himself immediately."

"Most people in my line do know him, or know of him," he shrugged his shoulders. Then he abandoned his flawless ease; his face hardened. "Tell me one thing, Mr. Landis, how the devil does Achison come into this?"

"Well, as Madam Adelbon's attorney, he is willing, no doubt, to pay a high price for those letters, and I'm as sure as one can be of anything that he has them now."

"I see," I said, "and you think I am—"

"Somebody else," he said, merely pointing out to you, at present, the possibility that either you or your sister might have—"

"Hold hard there," he interrupted, "rather than have Cathleen brought into this, I will tell you something. That safe was robbed by an old fellow called the Missionary."

"We already knew the Missionary opened the safe, but we also know he had absolutely no opportunity to get the letters to Achison."

"Then Hereward—Herbert handed them over?"

"Herbert's movements are equally well known. He was shadowed every step of the way he took that night, and since then he has, of course, been watched constantly."

"Strange," he muttered, "there's a missing link somewhere. And yet not so strange, after all, with Achison pulling the strings."

"He gave an impatient twitch of his eye, as if he were impatient with me. 'This is a lot more serious than I thought. I know Adelbon, the old feller, and all of her crowd. She's as devilish and cunning as a cobra. I haven't much doubt that she retired old Mr. Foodick, or arranged for it; and I can't see the net on her sly little fingers. But you can figure on her to some extent. What I mean is that she only has so many moves at her command, and they can be reckoned in advance and guarded against. With Achison behind her though. My word! It is like putting human intelligence into a poison gas shell. One can't guess where it will strike next. Really, I am afraid even Miss Foodick may be in a tight place.'

"I didn't care to have him see how hard any suggestion of this sort hit me. 'I don't think so,' I said. 'In the first place, the inspector has made every provision for her protection; and in the second place, the nature of the scheme is a guarantee of her safety. They think she will come across to avoid publicity.'

"'Yes—' thoughtfully, 'but Miss Foodick has started in to fight; trust them to know what her attitude is. And she is clever, very, and quite fearless. Trust them to know that, too. And she is determined to bring the matter of her grandfather's book to the odds are that she will give them a run for their money. Then they will act. What if they do have to abandon the blackmail feature? They have a claim, and it is good against her estate. Achison will see to that.'

"'Barsting,' Sara came in the room, 'well, relief is in sight. Pardy has just informed me that dinner is served. Your sister,' she smiled at Lord Harry, 'is much better. Mrs. Hayes gave her a sedative, and she is probably asleep by this time. She means to keep the poor little thing in bed tomorrow, though. I don't wonder that. What if she should be attacked by her grandfather's book? The odds are that she will give them a run for their money. Then they will act. What if they do have to abandon the blackmail feature? They have a claim, and it is good against her estate. Achison will see to that.'

They have a claim, and it is good against her estate. Achison will see to that.'

"'Barsting,' Sara came in the room, 'well, relief is in sight. Pardy has just informed me that dinner is served. Your sister,' she smiled at Lord Harry, 'is much better. Mrs. Hayes gave her a sedative, and she is probably asleep by this time. She means to keep the poor little thing in bed tomorrow, though. I don't wonder that. What if she should be attacked by her grandfather's book? The odds are that she will give them a run for their money. Then they will act. What if they do have to abandon the blackmail feature? They have a claim, and it is good against her estate. Achison will see to that.'

Good morning!

I dinna see just what the story has to do with the title or vice versa. The photograph is, however, adopted from a novel, and if you've read that maybe you'll get the connection. The book hasn't changed to come my way.

The picture doesn't stand up awfully well as a whole because of lapses in the continuity. Just the same, the work of the three principals entitles it to your consideration.

The plot can be outlined briefly:

During the world war an English girl and a famous musician have enjoyed a remarkable friendship unhampered by the conventions that, in times of peace, brood sternly over the companionship of a young unmarried woman and a married man.

After the armistice their paths diverge and for several years they do not meet. Then at a Swiss resort they discover each other again and for a brief few hours, in the old, carefree fashion they play around together. Scandal mongers observe them.

The girl marries an Englishman with whom she is madly in love. He adores her and takes her to his stately home. Here, among his friends who have known of the Swiss episode, the musician's wife has learned of it and is about to sue for divorce.

The musician arrives to explain the whole thing to the unhappy husband and finds things in a terrible turmoil. How he settles matters for everybody concerned brings the picture to a touching and different finish.

Clive Brook is the English actor we're all liking so well. I THINK he's the sort of chap most women refer to as "a fellow."

Mr. Moore believes, EDWARD C. MOORE must choose a path between abstruse technical discussions and mere cleverness. Primarily, he thinks, the music critic is a reporter.

The speaker was graduated from the Northwestern university law school and served his apprenticeship as a music reviewer on the Chicago Daily Tribune.

CLOSEUPS

Arthur Edmund Carewe is known as the social hermit of Hollywood. The other night, though, they do say he appeared at the Club Montmartre all dressed up, took the first violinist's fiddle from him, and astounded the festive crowd with strains of sweetest melody. [The boy took lessons when he was young, 'tis said, and apparently has forgotten nothing he ever learned.]

enthusiastically as "a sweet thing." He has a charming personality and a great deal of appeal and is besides, a finished actor.

Ian Keith is well cast as the dreamy, idealistic, lovable young musician. Mary Astor is charming as the whole-some, merry English girl whose sense of humor doesn't get her anything with her husband's people. Louise Dresser has several short scenes that she puts over expertly.

There are several beautiful and rather unusual scenes among the snowy mountains and the photography throughout is commendable. See you tomorrow.
